

feeling of belonging. "It was kind of like [being in] a little sorority when you share that much of yourself and you're that vulnerable," Carol says.

And Carol will continue meditating, making salads, and enjoying any food she chooses to eat--in an orderly fashion.